COURSE DESCRIPTION (OVERVIEW):SYLLABUS/OUTLINE: WEEKLY BREAKDOWN OF PROJECT-BASED LEARNING ACTIVITY

Starlight Studio is a safe and comfortable place to gather, create, work, learn, and share. Instructor Lisa Van Plew-Cid has created an authentic, successful, virtual art class online environment that reflects her in-person teaching program. This is her 3rd year of teaching art online, and her students have thrived. Our virtual class utilizes Google Meet, Google Classroom, and Padlet. All students need access to a Gmail email address to facilitate access to our online class platforms. The weekly two hour virtual class consists of an hour of “Demo” where we learn an essential art skill from one of the seven media centers available in the studio. Students will be supported in working on independent “Studio” work the second hour. Student ability to “behave like an artist” is supported and developed through presentation of art skill/techniques, the creative process, and a well-situated “virtual” art studio environment. Students will receive a box of art “media” and art “papers” to support their work in this virtual studio environment. Both group and individual instruction are available. Curriculum in our studio is both prescriptive and emergent and responsive to artists and their individual work. Art History and Culture is contextually referenced during our artmaking.

ART SUPPLIES

- A fully equipped art supply box will be provided for students ($40 supply fee)
- Students will need a blank page SKETCHBOOK for class.
